"Without trust, you can't accomplish extraordinary things."

-- The Leadership Challenge

As a leader, the most important, influential currency you have is trust. Leading others to do extraordinary things begins with trust in God, yourself, and others. The Collaborative Leadership Lab invites you to hone your leadership skills to effectively build and grow interpersonal and group trust, ownership, and innovation. Also, bring your team! We will explore how to steward each team members' Working Genius to accomplish extraordinary things together.

Register here.

All In Community Leadership Labs are environments for Matthew 25 co-laborers who minster with justice-involved persons and/or who are transforming their own justice-involved journey. Together, we will learn and grow in our mission of restoring hope, supporting journeys toward healing, and transforming lives and communities to reflect Kingdom values of justice and belonging.

All Leadership Labs provide theological exploration, reflective practices, tools and resources, and mutual learning environments for more effective leadership. Led by justice-involved persons and All In Community leaders, AIC Leadership Labs are free to attend. Breakfast and lunch are provided. A hospitality offering is greatly appreciated.

For more details, download the Leadership Labs flyer and check out the Equipping Events page on the West Ohio Conference Website.
